Language students learn best when given the opportunity to communicate meaningful content in realistic settings. Providing those realistic contexts hasn't always been easy, but-as this book emphatically demonstrates-technology can help. Technology breaks through the constraints of the classroom and offers language students authentic, individualized interactions with members of the French language community. Technology gives students access to French language websites, news outlets, video, and other real-world language resources. Technology provides precisely the kind of meaningful interactions and rich experiences that lead to the biggest gains in proficiency.

Technology-Infused French begins by showing you how to use technology to present French language instruction in a meaningful, realistic context. Section 1 discusses effectively integrating technology and provides ideas for aligning with foreign language and technology standards in your French classroom. Section 2 follows with resource units for four different classroom projects that address standards, make connections to other curriculum areas, highlight technology use, and include teaching plans. Let this book show you how to help your students become proficient-able to communicate in real-life settings and situations, not just in the classroom.
